petition* Thence they proceeded to the k: of the Tuileries was closed, and was gui national guards. They broke down th< the palace, placed guns in position opf

j lodging, smashed through four doors, ai

I the king two cockades, one white, the ! Choose* — they said, — reign here, or at king stood it well, and placed a red cap c

I How could they let the rabble in (to tt j They ought to have mowed down four or ^ them with cannon, and the others would

• When I was told that Louis had put t i head I concluded that his reign was ove

J an act that degrades can never be lived <

; July 3d. I am bound to say that our le lot of men. Seeing the whole business clearly enough how little worth while it i | win the favour of the people. Each one | j vicinal interest and tries to esccel in horro j to-day as base as ever they were. It is en j all ambition.

I August 7th. All the symptoms are th break out; many people arc leaving Pan* 1 have lx*en working a good deal at as my «tny hare* It'n a splendid am linemen